In loving memory of our dear Betty Bumworsel.

Betty Bumworsel was well known amongst the men folk at the Scunthorpe Boiler Makers Union Club in the North of England. She was despised by all the wives and girl friends, who were always having a go at their husbands about our Betty, "You've been round that Betty Bumworsel again haven't ya" they would say, "I know you've been stuck into her pudding again."

Betty had her first bit of spotty dick, (a sausage shape, suet and raisin pudding from the Northern Counties) when she was just a teenager, she couldn't get enough of it. Betty soon learnt that the secret to a good spotty dick, was to perfect your Rolli Polli (another suet based pudding, with bacon and onions) if your good at Roli Poli, then you'll be good at other. The trick is getting it to rise and our Betty had perfected this, if it didn't rise to her liking, it wasn't going anywhere near her oven.

Betty was a plucker and stuffer as well, she could pluck, stuff and get em up and ready, in just a few minutes. Four chickens, two turkeys and six rabbits in less than an hour, were her record. She'd look like one of those heavy weight boxers when she had her hands stuck in a chicken. Betty would spare round the kitchen with em just for a bit of a laugh sparring and air boxing.

When Betty got her hands on a bit of meat, she could do wonders with it. The local butcher, Iver Everard, was as happy as a pig in poo when ever Betty put his meat in her oven. She was good with Faggots too. (faggots are similar to rissoles, both are from the north of England) Faggot lovers came from all over. She'd spank em into shape with a wooden paddle, and after they'd been in her oven for a while they were orgasmic.

Betty was what you might call a big woman. She ate enormous amounts of black pudding, she liked a bit of black pudding our betty did. She cut back for a while, and made a great effort to lose weight, the penny dropped when one of the Elephants from a visiting circus started throwing peanuts at her. She took to power walking, but council wouldn't have nowt to do with it, and banned her from doing it because of the pot holes she left in the pavements around Scunthorpe. In the end she gave up and got bigger and bigger, she got that big that council issued her with her own post code.

Betty died during the latter stages of World War 11, whilst working her second job in a pub called "The Pig and Poke". She was taken short whilst pulling plonk. Betty was sat on toilet thinking about what she could do with a nice fat, juicy pork sausage, when suddenly there was an air raid. The pub took a direct hit. The wardens arrived just a few minutes later to the sound of laughter coming from the toilet, which was the only thing left standing. On opening the door they were confronted by Betty, her bloomers around her ankles and tears rolling down her cheeks. She looked up still laughing and said "I don't know what happened? All's I did was pull the chain and the bloody pub fell in" With the chain still in her hand, Betty proceeded to pull herself up. Unfortunately her weight proved to be too much thus dislodging the ornate, cast iron Victorian cistern from its fixtures, which in turn fell directly upon Betty's head, causing her to expire instantly. There now stands on the site where the toilet at the Pig and Poke once stood, a huge erection of a spotted dick, custard an all, celebrating the memory of our Betty Bumworsel.....God bless our Betty.
