Local Wineries

Granite Belt - Queensland

The Granite Belt is located about three hours south west of Brisbane and has altitudes between 680m to 1200m above sea level, it is amongst the highest altitude viticultural regions in Australia. This cool high country provides the ideal climate to produce wine. Often snowing in winter, this region has over 55 wineries and some in particular that we are very excited about.

Here is just a handful of exceptional wines currently coming out of the Granite Belt.

Golden Grove Estate

Mario and Nita Costanzo first settled into the Granite Belt in 1946, growing grapes for the fresh fruit market. The first vines were planted in 1975. Now with over 40 acres of grape varieties including Shiraz, Merlot, Cabernet, Semillon, Chardonnay, Sauvignon Blanc, Barbera, Tempranillo, Mourvedre, Malbec, Durif, Vermentino and Nero d'Avola. Golden Grove Estate continues to produce wines of outstanding quality and consistently picks up various awards within the Australian wine show system.

2015	Vermentino	$45
2015	'Joven' Tempranillo	$39
2012	'Vintage Grand Reserve' Nero d'Avola	$85

La Petite Mort

La Petite Mort is the small quirky side project from Bent Road Wines. Specialising in natural wines with minimal intervention, no fining or filtration are used. Produced in very small quantities these wines are experimental and show the new wave of winemaking in Queensland.

2014	'On skins' Viognier	$65
2014	'Amphora' Shiraz Viognier	$65

Witches Falls

Owner and winemaker Jon Hislop has spent many years perfecting his craft not only in Queensland but throughout Australia. After stints in the Barossa Valley and Hunter Valley Jon decided to move back to Queensland. Knowing the high potential for premium wine in the Granite Belt Jon set out about to change the perception of Queensland wine.
