Alternative Varieties

Ask most people what they think of when you say Australian wine and they'll probably tell you Barossa Shiraz, Coonawarra Cabernet, or maybe Hunter Valley Semillon. There is a growing body of evidence, though, that there are other grape varieties that are better suited to many Australian climates than the "noble" French ones. We have access to some fantastic examples of these "alternative" varieties from renowned and upcoming regions around SE Australia. Check out Vinodiversity (www.vinodiversity.com) for an insight into all the grape varieties being cultivated in Australia today.

Alternative White Flight		3 x 75mL	$ 14.00
Chenin Blanc	Best known from the Loire Valley in France, this Chenin exhibits bright green apple with lovely fresh acidity.
Viognier	It's French, but it's nowhere near as common as Chardonnay and Sauv Blanc. Big and meaty, but with great definition, and peachy fruit.
Gewurztraminer	Alsatian grape, this is full and rich. Big aromatics and volume give the impression of sweetness, but bone dry.
Alternative Red Flight		3 x 75mL	$ 14.00
Nero d'Avola	Sicilian variety. Loads of bright red fruits upfront, a light body and delicious savoury notes. Good chilled too.
Sangiovese	The grape of Tuscany in Italy. Medium body, lifted upfront fruit, a touch of spice and well integrated oak.
Malbec	French, but best known as the mainstay of Argentinian viticulture. This Malbec is plump and juicy, beautifully smooth with soft, ripe tannins.

Oz v. The World

Australia has a go at making all styles of wine, but always in its own way. We love looking at wines from what are considered traditional regions around the world and comparing them to our winemakers' interpretations. Bear in mind the varying climates, soils and philosophies, and enjoy each one for what they offer. As the French would say, "vive la différence!"

S Australia v. SE France (Viognier) 2 x 75mL $ 11.50

Viognier is traditionally grown in France's Rhone Valley, also the home of Nicolas Perrin. The fruit for this wine comes from a little further south (hence the affordability!...) but shows all the characteristics of a great Viognier: bold fruit, big peachy aromatics and wonderful mouthfilling volume. The McLaren Vale of ours is grown biodynamically, and is similarly robust, perhaps with a little more mineral definition on the finish. Both are lovely examples.

Viognier 2016 McLaren Vale SA
Nicolas Perrin Viognier 2015 SE France

Gundagai v. Rhone (Shiraz/Syrah) 2 x 75mL $ 15.00

A good comparison of New World and Old World Shiraz. Both are robust, ripe wines, but they express themselves very differently. Ben Haines' Le Pelerin Syrah, blended with Grenache, has great upfront fruit then a deliciously restrained earthy, spicy mid-palate and finish. Our Gundagai Shiraz is big, rich and round, with great volume and well integrated oak. Does the Frenchie have the edge in subtlety or are you more into the no-holds-barred Aussie style? Either way they're delicious.
