Mon's Thai Rarnaharn

The Thai Cooking School

The aim of this cooking class is to share with you the basics of Thai cooking and the typical ingredients involved and their usage. Our passion is to share with you, be it a beginner or an already talented cook, a few traditional and popular Thai meals that you will be able to easily reproduce at home for family and friends.

So let's get into it, put on your apron, grab your cutting board and knife and let's have some fun.

Thai cooking classes are held on most Saturday mornings. We start at 9.30am and finish at approximately 1.00pm. Private classes are also available during the week, great for team building or work functions. You will learn some simple Thai meals and discover the basic ingredients used to prepare these dishes, lunch is also included.

For further information and upcoming dates, please see staff for details.
